When I started composing tracks for Storm, I wanted to challenge myself to step outside my comfort zone and do something different. I decided to write music that is a little darker – with more frequent use of minor keys and with some noticeable anger or heartbreak. While the use of minor keys is not something new for my music, creating an album that is almost entirely minor is certainly a different mood for my albums. In writing these compositions, I aimed to reach to a different emotional depth that I had not previously explored.

Like all my music, Storm has been influenced by events in my own life and in the lives of those around me. This album, however, is not autobiographical. The music on Storm is dedicated to anyone who has experienced life's difficulties: death of a loved one, illness, job loss, breakup or divorce, or any other significant setback.

These tracks describe a journey from hope to disappointment, and ultimately to healing.
I hope you will enjoy Storm.
